About Today...

Easter celebrations take place from dusk on Holy Saturday (the liturgical moment of Resurrection) through to Easter Sunday morning. From earliest times Christians have gathered through the night of Easter to recall the story of God's saving work, from creation through to the death and resurrection of our Lord Jesus. However, the Easter Liturgy is not merely a presentation of God's work. It is meant to be a real experience of new life for the worshipper, a passing from darkness to light which offers hope to all the faithful. The Easter Vigil marks the end of the emptiness of Holy Saturday, and leads into the celebration of Christ's resurrection. The service begins in sombre mood, reflecting on the sins for which Christ died, before the Easter light is lit from the disciples' brazier, the church explodes back into light and colour and a joyful noise recalls the earthquake which accompanied the resurrection of Jesus. The Easter Gospel is proclaimed with all the joy and splendour that the church can find. All the resources of the church – music, flowers, bells, colours – are used to celebrate the resurrection. The 'Alleluia', which has been silent throughout Lent, returns. The first Holy Communion of Easter then follows. The Easter light is then brought to the services on Easter Morning.

Christian baptism is a participation in the death and resurrection of Christ, a dying to sin in order to be reborn in him, and Easter was, from early Christian times, a preferred occasion for baptism. It is also a time when those who are already Christians repeat with renewed commitment the promises of their own baptism.

"Now the queen of seasons, bright with the day of splendour, with the royal feast of feasts, comes its joy to render." (John of Damascus)
